

MZGS IV - PODCAST 2024

The assignment is to create a 30 minute podcast on a concept/topic from the book “Popular Music - the Key Concepts” by Roy Shuker. To make things easier, there are different steps to be taken. Here’s a step-by-step guide.

1. Get a duo together, choose a topic from the list.*)

DEADLINE 08/04

2. Write and record an opening tune. Making music will help to form ideas on the feel and vibe of the podcast.

DEADLINE 15/04

3. Do some research for your podcast and create a list of at least 20 sources.

DEADLINE 22/04

Here's a step-by-step guide on how to write a podcast script:

1. Define your concept and goals: Decide on the topic, format, and tone of your podcast. Establish what you want to accomplish with the episode and who your target audience is.
2. Research your topic: Gather information and resources to ensure your content is accurate and relevant. You can use books, articles, interviews, or personal experiences to inform your script.
3. Outline your episode: Determine the structure of your episode and the key points you want to cover. A typical podcast episode has an intro, main content, and a conclusion.
4. Write a compelling intro: Start with a hook that will grab your listeners' attention and introduce the topic of the episode. The intro should set the tone and provide context for what's to come.
5. Create a script: Write the main content of your episode in a conversational tone. Use short paragraphs, active voice, and humor to keep your listeners engaged.
6. Add sound effects and music: Enhance your script by incorporating sound effects and music that support your content and help create a mood or atmosphere.
7. Incorporate guest interviews: If you plan to have guests on your show, write questions for them and any introductions you want to make.
8. Write a conclusion: Sum up the key points you covered in the episode and provide any closing thoughts or calls to action.
9. Add transitions: Add seamless transitions between segments to help your listeners follow along. This can be done with music, sound effects, or voiceover.
10. Edit and refine your script: Review your script for clarity, flow, and pacing. Make sure your content is engaging, informative, and true to your goals and concept.

Remember, the most important thing is to be authentic, passionate, and engaging with your audience. Writing a script is just a tool to help you organize your thoughts and deliver your message effectively.

LIST OF KEY CONCEPTS

This is the list from the book by Roy Shuker "Popular Music - The Key Concepts". Choose one for the podcast (no genre, we did that in semester III). You can of course also come up with your own concept/topic. I strongly advise to check out the book for further references.
